PRESENT PROCLAMATION CON-TAINING VIEWS ON PEACE CONDITIONS.

CLAIM ENGLAND LEADS

Advocates Say That Great Britain
Causes Allies to Stick Together In Great Strife.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Berlin, via London, Aug. 25.—A proclamation containing views on the peace conditions which might be imposed by Germany is published today by the "Independent Committee for a German Peace," an organization formed some time ago by those considered to be the extreme war advocates of Germany.

"Our enemies will not succeed,"
says the proclamation. "One thing they have accomplished is to force upon us the realization that England is our special and most dangerous enemy."

"England causes our enemies to stick together. England leads them.
Upon England they depend, and will depend more upon after the war. On the wreckage of our empire, England hopes to unfurl the banner of Anglo-Saxon world dominion."

"The document asserts that Russian territory from the Baltic to Vrubynia, must in the future be included in the German sphere, to serve as a bulwark against the Russian tendency to annihilate Germany. France's ideas must constantly be kept in mind, so that in the worst case changes would be necessary."

"Belgium in the future," adds the proclamation, "shall be a German man or an English bulwark, so that guarantees here also are needed. The document then cites the expression of Dr. Fritzsche, leader of the Catholic Center party in the Reichstag, that Belgium might lie in German hands, militarily, economically and politically."

"The proclamation concludes with the assertion:
"England's plan threatens us with political and economical helotry. It aims at our life as a people, and as a state. It aims at our culture and institutions. Energy must be applied, regardless of consequences, to force peace upon this enemy. Let it not come true, that as England says, 'we will win the war.' With Von Hindenburg, let us say it is not only a question of sticking it out, but of winning."

WOMEN "SOLDIERS"
GET HIGH PRAISEWomen In Training Camp at Lake
Geneva Are Given High Praise For Learning So Quickly.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Lake Geneva, Aug. 25.—Women receiving military instruction at the national service school training camp here, were praised today for the result obtained in the short period of their training. Commander W. A.
Moffitt of the great lakes naval training station said the results were astonishing.

"I never would have guessed these young women could drill so perfectly,"
he said. "It is because of well trained minds that results have been obtained
so quickly."

The two companies of seventy-five women each are engaged in keen competition for camp honors.

DR. SUN YAT SEN,
FRIEND OF JAPS,
IS BACK IN CHINA

Dr. Sun Yat Sen.

The return to China of Dr. Sun
Yat Sen, first provisional president of the Chinese republic, is an event of international importance. Sun Yat Sen has been in exile in Japan, driven out of the country in the summer of 1913 by Yuan Shi Kai after the latter had been made president of China to succeed Sun Yat Sen. European nations as well as the United States are anxious to discover what power Sun Yat Sen will favor, now that the chances are good of his getting back into the saddle in China.

ALLIED PREMIERS
HOLD CONFERENCE
IN LONDON TODAYPremiers From England and France
and Finance Agents Met in London Today in Conference.

London, Aug. 25.—The premiers of Great Britain and France and the finance ministers of the financial and kindred interests met at Calais today and reached an agreement on important financial matters including payment abroad and the maintenance of exchange between the two countries.
A conference was held yesterday at Calais the official statement says, between the French and British governments, a complete agreement with regard to all subjects with which the conference dwelt. An arrangement was concluded regarding payments abroad and maintenance of exchange between the two countries.

The French government was represented by M. Briand, president of the council of ministers; M. Ribot, minister of finance; accompanied by M.
Painlevé, governor of the Bank of France, and M. Marjorie and O. Hombert. (Oscar Homberg was a member of the Anglo-French financial commission in the United States in 1916).

The British government was represented by Premier Asquith, Reginald McKenna, Edward Samuel, Montagu, minister of munitions, and Thomas McKenna Wood, financial secretary of the treasury; accompanied by the chief justice, the governor of the Bank of England and Sir Maurice Hankey.

NO PROGRESS
IN PARLEYS
ON STRIKENO DECISION IS REACHED TODAY
AND MATTERS ARE IN GREAT
STATE OF CONFUSION.

UNIONS MEET WILSON

What Was Done in Conference Between Wilson and Labor Union Heads Is Not Known.

Washington, Aug. 25.—The railway strike negotiations solved themselves today outwardly at least, into a more or less confused state.

Expressions of optimism from both sides were not so free as they were yesterday, and feeling heretofore general among the managers that a plan to include the eight hour day would be found, was not so evident.
Some of the railway executives reverted to their prediction that it never would be conceded.

President Wilson kept his cabinet waiting an hour while he conferred with the four brotherhood heads.

All parties to the conference seemingly refused to say what was talked about.

The railroad executives conferred among themselves during the day, and it was thought possible they might reach a decision before the strike later go to the White House. For the executives, this statement was issued:
"The executives are understood to be studying the form of a communication to the president."

Some of the more optimistic still had hopes of a final decision being reached before tomorrow night. The opinion that the eight hour basis day would be conceded, apparently was growing as conferences continued.

The executives and managers devoted attention no time today to considering the freight rate increases or settlement of future strikes, but centered on the length of working day and pay.

Many of the executives are willing to concede an eight hour day with the understanding that it shall not only be the maximum work day, but also the minimum, in other words, that the present practice by which an employe may get pay for a day and a half or even two days when he worked only ten or twelve hours, will be eliminated.

The brotherhood heads declared
they were standing on President Wilson's plan and had not changed their attitude a particle.

President Wilson summoned representatives of employers and employes involved in the threatened railroad strike to the White House for conferences to discuss proposals which have developed out of his original plan of settlement.

Arrangements were made for the representatives of employes to see the president at 1:30 o'clock and for the representatives of the employers later.

GERMANS RAISE BIG
SUMS FOR FAMILIESMunicipalities of Germany Raise
Large Sum for Relief of Soldier Families.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Berlin, Aug. 25.—The amount raised by German municipalities for relief of families of soldiers has reached about 2,000,000 marks. The federal treasury will turn over to the municipalities at a later date about 500,000,000 marks.

"Six hostile airships raided the east and southeast coast of England last night at intervals between midnight and three o'clock this morning. One airship made her way westward well inland. The remainder of the force carried out short incursions over the coast. The number of bombs dropped by the raiders has not yet been ascertained. Several bombs have been reported to have been dropped at sea.
The damage effected was slight."

"In one locality a railway station and some houses were damaged and two horses killed. At another point two houses were wrecked and three casualties not yet reported. To date nine persons reported injured, some fatally."

Attacked Wednesday.
London, Aug. 25.—An attack on London by a German airship was made Wednesday night, the war office announced today.

Eight Killed.—An official report of today says that eight persons were killed and thirty-six injured in last night's Zeppelin raid.

WISCONSIN SOLDIER
TAKES WEDDING VOWSOfficer in Wisconsin Company Marries Unknown Girl While Movie Man Takes Pictures.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Milwaukee, Aug. 25.—A Wisconsin lieutenant married a woman he had never seen before and whose name
he did not know, according to a staff correspondent of the Milwaukee Journal at Camp Wilson, San Antonio, Tex.

The officer was Harry D. Nelson, Company H, 3rd Infantry, and the wedding was staged Thursday to give a moving picture man a realistic film.
Charles H. Longbrigg of the regiment, performed the ceremony. Not one person knew the "bride's" name, except the movie man and he refused to tell.

The movie man wanted a crowd on hand, so someone shouted "fight." The whole regiment came. They cheered and formed a bridal path on the compact street for the lieutenant to march down, when the ceremony was finished.

One hundred and twenty-five recruits arrived from Camp Douglas today.

Praying Made Easy.
Mechanical devices for repeating prayers are familiar in the East, but they are outdone, in saving of labor, by the "prayer flags" of Tibet. These as described by J. C. White, in the National Geographic Magazine are suspended on long lines, sometimes reaching across a river. As long as they are moving in the breeze they are supposed to be recording prayers for the benefit of those who put them up.

PARALYSIS FOUND
AT SUMMER RESORT;
MANY PEOPLE LEAVEInfantile Paralysis Is Found in Family
at Summer Resort and Every One Leaves Camp.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Sturgeon Bay, Wis., Aug. 25.—An exodus of more than one hundred guests at summer resorts here left late yesterday and others are leaving as fast as they can close up their summer homes, following discovery of a case of infantile paralysis in a family which did laundry work for many of the summer residents. Several cottages have been quarantined.

One New Case.
Madison, Aug. 25.—One case of infantile paralysis was reported from St. Paul, Ashland county. There are now 122 cases in the state with eleven deaths.

22 Die In New York.
New York, Aug. 25.—During the twenty-four hours ending at 10 a. m.
there were only two deaths from infantile paralysis, and ninety-four new cases, the lowest number in a month.

ADOPTED GIRLS OF
AGED MORRISON ON
THE STAND TODAYTwo Alleged Adopted Girls of Edw.
W. Morrison, Former Millionaire,
Take Stand In Trial.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Aug. 25.—The two girls recently adopted by Edward W. Morris-son, multimillionaire, who their reputed father, Joseph Bernstein, a ju-dender, alleged is their real father, were ordered today to appear before Judge Landis in United States district court in inquiry into the aged man's vanished millions.

The girls, Margaret, 18, and Alice, 16, are expected to be called to the stand this afternoon. They have been making their home at Morrison's residence since their adoption, three weeks ago. Morrison's housekeeper, Mrs. Anna Briggs, also was summoned
as a witness.

James R. Ward, attorney for Morris-son, who has come into possession of $2,000,000 in property owned by the aged man, was abruptly stopped by Judge Landis when he attempted to question Morrison concerning $200,000 John Sommer, a jeweler, said he spent in providing amusement for the recluse.

"You can't assume, Mr. Ward, that John borrowed the club," Judge Landis said, "and used it on the old man."

They declared that "Communism" must go, and this cry was echoed all over the land. The chorus was joined in, it must be remembered, by a few republicans of unquestioned power, whose words became law, and then to show the sincerity of their conviction and their willingness to throw overboard all who stood in their way, the democrats were permitted to select as Mr. Cannon's confederate a man who for years had always been constantly and unflinchingly worked to bring out invaluable facts that have been used to advantage to the benefit of the nation.

Aldrich Unappreciated.
"This man, Elson W. Aldrich, was chosen for attack and declamation.
He rendered such service of inestimable value that few of us can now realize the work of the man or appreciate the value of his services to the country."

"Goat" to Appear Their

Washington, Aug. 25.—Senator Gal-linger, republican leader, and one of the oldest of the "old guards," told the senate today during debate on the revenue bill, that former Speaker Cannon was the "Jonah" upon whom the insurgent wing of the republican party heaped the blame for their complaint against the Dingley tariff, and that the late Senator which was chosen by them as "his confederate for attack and declamation."

"The republican leader defended both Representative Cannon and Senator Aldrich. As far back as 1896, he declared, "certain politicians" began to plant the seed of discontent to "break down the protective tariff policy of the republican party and to discredit the acknowledged leaders of that polity."

"Men who called themselves republicans," he said, "gave current to the startling and false theory that the increased cost of living was due to excessive rates provided by the Dingley tariff."

"So far did this disaffection go," said Senator Gallinger, "that certain republicans began to disclaim responsibility for what they called the radical provisions of the Dingley law, and began looking about for a Jonah upon which they might heap the burden of blame and visit penalties attaching thereto."

"The man with the active assistance of the democrats in this sacrifice of a man who had served his country in the house of representatives for thirty years, and at all times with moderation, honor and distinction, this man then whom the great patriot and more faithful servant has ever seen in public service, was Joseph Cannon."

Orfordville News

Orfordville, Aug. 24.—A train containing fifteen passenger coaches passed through the village on Wednesday evening, for the transportation of passengers to fair in the counties west of here.

D. E. Rossiter, assistant train dispatcher for C. M. & St. P. railway company, is in the village visiting with his mother and other relatives. He was at Camp Douglas arranging for the transportation of the militia to the border.

The Luther Valley band gave an open air concert in the village on Wednesday evening, which was greatly enjoyed and appreciated.

Miss Mable Burdette-Everson, who underwent an operation at Mercy Hospital a few days ago, is reported as doing well and on the road to recovery.

Mrs. Burnette Fjeldstad of Elroy arrived in Orfordville on Thursday and will spend a few days visiting with relatives here.

A delegation of local Odd Fellows went to Fort Atkinson on Thursday to attend a district convention of the order in that city.

SPEEDING TOURING CAR BUMPS SMALL ROADSTER NEAR NEWVILLE BRIDGE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Newville, Aug. 25.—A small roadster owned and run by Irving Smith of Clear Lake, was damaged slightly last evening about nine o'clock when it was run into by a large touring car. The accident happened a few rods from the bridge. No one was injured but the front wheels of the roadster were badly damaged. Smith, with two other companions were going along the Newville road when a large car was coming from the opposite direction at a high rate of speed. The roadster was run into by the car, but the other party did not turn at all. They struck the front wheels of the smaller machine. Smith could not catch their number.

"POOR LITTLE RICH BOY" MUST GO RIGHT BACK TO STEPFATHER'S MOTHER

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Nyack, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Willie Crossman Lee, "the poor little rich boy" who cried and said he was "tired of being dragged around the country" by relatives interested in the $2,000,000 estate he inherits from the late William Crossman, coffee king, will shift guardians again here today.

Supreme Court Justice Tompkins decided that De Witt H. Kenyon, Port Chester lawyer, must return the boy to Mrs. Emma Kenyon Lee, mother of Frederick T. Lee of White Plains, father of the boy.

The battle for possession of the two million dollar boy has waged hotly for more than a year in the New York courts between William Mills, Jr., father of the boy and Lee's stepfather. His father started seven separate actions to get the boy and the management of the estate, but lost every one.

The boy's mother, who divorced Mills and married Lee, died in New York 2 years ago. Testimony at the hearing said that Mills had never taken any interest in his son until he inherited the estate of the coffee king. The boy testified that his mother had impressed on him the desirability of remaining with his stepfather.

The lawyer Lyon was appointed guardian a few months ago, and the boy taken away from Lee. Lee and his mother hid the boy and were haled into court. It is expected that they will now be permitted to keep him.

INFERNAL MACHINE KILLS CHINK POWED WORKS HEAD AND FOUR OF HIS HELPERS

Hanow, China, Aug. 25.—Major-General Shen, director of the Hanow Powder works, and four of his assistants were blown to pieces recently by an explosion of an infernal machine. A mysterious box was sent to General Wang at Wuchang. The general was suspicious of its appearance and forwarded it to the powder works for its examination. He had many political enemies and was afraid some of them were trying to kill him. Upon the arrival of the box at the powder works, the director and his assistants made an examination of it with fatal results. The directors' office was completely demolished. One wall was completely blown out, and all the occupants of the room were turned into small pieces.

CARRIAGE MAKERS.

This is called the horseless age. Yet the last census figures show an annual production of 1,187,000 horse drawn vehicles, of these 558,400 are buggies, mostly used for pleasure purposes and light business. The carriage makers, far from giving up the ghost, have just announced their 44th annual convention at Cincinnati next month.

Theoretically a cheap automobile is as inexpensive as a horse and carriage. It certainly is if the horse is a fair roader, is well fed, and if carriages are maintained in good order.

But many of the country people have always run horse and carriage on a very inexpensive basis. They buy old horses and cheap or second hand carriages for trifling sums. The horses are fed in pastures without any payment in cash. Carriages are allowed to go unpainted and unwashed.

It costs but little to operate these outfits. Their owners are not proud, they have no social pretensions, they are philosophically content to jog along at five or six miles an hour. A freshly painted carriage would make their working clothes look dingy. They get lots of pleasure out of these homely and inexpensive rigs, and their daily work is facilitated by them.

In this way a market is created for cheap and second hand vehicles, which tends to keep carriage makers busy. While fine turn-out is not very common nowadays, it is good many people still love horseflesh and demand handsome and substantial carriages. Tradespeople still make big use of horses and wagons for delivery and trucking purposes. The average grocery boy is hardly fit to be trusted with the complicated mechanism of an automobile.

The horse is still the great democratic motive power. The carriage makers will live for many a day to provide his equipment.

BECOMING WARMER

Evidently the pre-primary campaign is becoming slightly heated to say the least. What with the senior senator travelling from one end of the state to the other making contradictory statements relative to his own views on the tariff, his two senatorial friends discussing issues to which they are foreign, except for biased statements that have been given them and all of them excluding any word of praise or commendation of Judge Hughes or of the national republican platform from their talks, it would appear that desperate measures are being taken to defeat Jeffris for the senatorial nomination.

Of course, the three cornered fight between Philipp, Hutton and McGovern is most interesting to watch for the state. Both Hutton and McGovern are both so interesting to the general public that it is directly contrary to the fact Governor Philipp expounds it must prove some one is not telling the truth. All three candidates are entourage of the state and all are talking to just as large audiences as they can, trusting to convince voters of their fitness for office. Of the three Philipp is thus far the only one who has actually accomplished anything in the way of helping the cause.

In the district senatorial fight the energy of the opponents to the conservative government of state affairs are most active in seeking to belittle L. E. Cunningham. His record, however, is a stumbling block for them and they are having hard work to convince voters that their unwilling candidate is really the man to be nominated for the office of state senator.

The same statement can be applied to the efforts of the same element to nominate a candidate against assemblyman Winnegar, who made such an enviable record as a law maker at the last session of the legislature. Mr. Winnegar will doubtless be re-nominated but it is unfortunate that his political enemies will resort to the tricks they are to befalling the voters if possible. However, this year the voters are thinking for themselves and it would be surprising if the conservative republican ticket headed by Jeffris, Philipp, the entire conservative republican ticket and in this district, Cunningham for state senator and Whittier and Winnegar for the assembly, are not re-nominated by a large majority.

AFFAIRS LOCAL.

The average citizen should be interested in matter of local importance no matter by whom projected. The plan for a genuine city park, a recreation spot for the public, a bathing beach, more drinking fountains in various parts of the city, erection of signs directing visiting motorists the various routes and other information, are all questions that deserve consideration.

The summer will soon be over and perhaps many of these suggestions will receive enthusiastic consideration when too late to be of any actual benefit to the public this year. It is never too late to start and the wonderful work that Madison has undertaken and accomplished in the past few years should be a criterion of what could be accomplished in this city.

We have had a Fourth celebration at Home Coming, one of the best—if not the best—in the state this year and besides that two new factories have been established all since spring. Now it is time to turn to something else and why not consider the bathing beach and more drinking fountains?

The ladies of the city have demonstrated the value of the rest room to the general public and its future is assured. One by one new innovations have been introduced and accepted and become established facts and there is no reason why others can not also be introduced and made successful. Why not try them?

THE WATER RATES.

We are again informed that the water rates to consumers are to be reduced materially, this time the date is set for October first. Last time we heard anything definite about it was to be July first. However, the average property owner can wait until October if the rate is really going to be effective and worth anything. As it is now, with the dry summer weeks just past, the millions of gallons of water used by property-owners must have been a tax upon the water company. However, the consumer with a meter pays for his, as his bills will show, while the householder paying a flat rate gets off at the same old figure.

There is one thing that can be said in favor of the water company and that is that its supply is always as good and pure a quality the year round and after visiting many cities where the water is insipid and warm, Janesville for its refreshing drink.

While other cities have been forced to restrict the amount of water used by the individual consumer during the extreme hot weather, restrict the watering of lawns, and physicians have urged that the water be boiled before using, no such restrictions or suggestions have been made in Janesville, and some lawns are still green despite the blistering sun, by the use of the water by hosing night and morning.

Water is one of the blessings of mankind and if it can be made any cheaper to the consumer in Janesville it is a matter of rejoicing and one which speaks well for the management of the city affairs handling this important department.

The nomination of Myron T. Herick as republican candidate for senator from Ohio will be followed by his election, of course. And this assures to the republican senate which who will be able to contribute a great deal to the task of reforming the rural credits law which the democrats have just placed on the statute books, but which they themselves do not expect to have in operation until some time next spring. By that time a republican administration will be in charge and the work of perfecting hasty democratic legislation will have begun. Meantime the local press and the democratic stump will respond with praise of this imperfect and impracticable legislation.

Real Liberty.
Liberty, real liberty, consists not in lawlessness, but in servitude to law. That is its essential condition. Milton has put it into majestic words: "Where complaints are freely heard, deeply considered and speedily reformed, then is the utmost bound of civil liberty attained that wise men look for."

Noble-Minded Generally Sad.
It was a saying of Aristotle that all noble-minded men are inclined to sadness. It is not merely the feeling that their lot is a hard one which oppresses them; it is something more—it is their inward sympathy and consciousness of participation in the sufferings of the human race to which they belong.—Guesses at Truth.

PICKPOCKETS DUPE POLICE AT BRODHEAD YESTERDAY MORNING

Local Officers Think Village Force Bungled in Permitting Suspects They Arrested to Go.

Brodhead police, on advice of the Janesville department, took the pickpocket suspects from the westbound Mineral Point division passenger train which left here at 10:55 o'clock, but permitted them to continue on to Darlington later when they showed through trip tickets from Chicago. In belief of the local police the escape of the men who went through the pockets of W. C. Cannon of Milwaukee, Ohio, and secured his purse and forty dollars at the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway depot here during the morning.

At least three good descriptions of the men who robbed Cannon, almost identical in every detail, were obtained. Cannon himself thinks that he can recognize the men. A long-haired "doctor" of some patent medicine, on his way to the Beloit fair, gave a good description of them, and Henry White, a porter at the Chicago & Northwestern depot, also saw them.

After completing their job at the Milwaukee station, they went to the Northwestern depot and entered a telephone booth. Here they took the money from the purse. White saw them in the booth and noticed that they were handling the money but thought nothing of this in the telephone booth, although only coins can be placed in the toll boxes. It was not until long afterwards that he learned of the pickpocketing, and then informed the police. Afterwards Cannon's pocketbook was found in the booth family.

The Brodhead officers were duped by the two in the opinion of Chief Champion. He holds that it is only plausible that clever pickpockets would go through tickets from Chicago to Darlington, where the fair is being held this week. The pair carried suit cases and these, with the tickets, threw the village police entirely off the trail.

Cannon was the victim of the old trick performed time and time again during the past three years at the Milwaukee station. It is the one that is worked best as the train is stopping as it arrives in the station and the passengers are in the aisles and crowding to the vestibules.

One of the men, carrying a suitcase, gets just ahead of the other and is robbed. As the passengers begin to move out after the train has stopped the man with the grip suddenly drops through his pockets the easy mark is bending over and "rubbing" to see what the man ahead of him is looking through his pockets. The man is bent over and "rubbing" to see what the man ahead of him is looking through his pockets. The man is bent over and "rubbing" to see what the man ahead of him is looking through his pockets.

ALEXANDER WINS 24TH AS MATES HELP DOWN CARDINALS SEVEN TO TWO

Alexander scored his twenty-fourth victory last season Thursday, 7 to 2, checking the Cardinals' winning streak of five straight. Doubles by Snyder and Hornsby scored one in the fourth and a double by Batzel and a single in the fifth. Meadows weakened in the fourth and fifth. Batzel had four errors at third. He dropped two easy runs, made a three-base wild throw in the sixth when Stock was out going from first to third. This error gave the Quakers their opening for the three runs.

GROWING IN POPULARITY

CONGRESS HAS SPENT NEARLY TWO BILLION DURING THIS SESSION

Present Session Establishes Record
for Expenditures and Appropriations for Contracts.

New York, Aug. 25.—With the completion of this session congress will have made a new record for expenditures. The appropriations of this session, including authority given to award contracts, pass the enormous total of $2,000,000,000—or to express it more intelligently, they will have exceeded two thousand million dollars. The actual appropriations total $1,710,000,000 and to this must be added authorizations for continuing expenses amounting to $336,644,000. These figures include $73,000,000 for good roads and $60,000,000 for flood control. The appropriations for this session will exceed those of the last session by $150,000,000 and those of the last year by $300,000,000. The increased appropriations on account of national defense, according to Senator Smoot, total in round numbers $365,000,000, leaving the remaining $150,000,000 attributable to democratic extravagance. The democrats protest against the inclusion in these figures of $50,000,000 for the navy, because it has passed the house but not the senate, but they also predict it will pass the senate during this congress. "Democratic debauch" is the term republicans apply to the lavishment of money by the democrats in their handling of the government's funds. Senator Smoot declares that "if we could bring the democratic party into a court of justice and try it under the rules of law, the evidence would be more than adequate to convict it of attempting to secure victory under false pretenses," this referring to the efforts of the administration to justify the statistics and belaud the facts. Mr. Smoot also asserts that should the democratic party remain in power the country would suffer "an era of unbridled extravagance, combined with inefficiency and mismanagement."

Some Discrepancies.
Explanation has been asked of apparently glaring discrepancies between the figures in the report of appropriations, for instance. There are, of course, various ways in which figures can be juggled, but in discussing appropriations, the democratic leaders almost invariably include only so much of the funds appropriated as they believe it will be necessary to pay out during the approaching fiscal year, whereas the republican figures include total not only all that must be paid during the coming fiscal year, but all for which government officials are authorized to spend during the year. For instance, the navy department is authorized to spend $129,345,000, but Secretary Daniels held up contracts and delayed the beginning of the work to such an extent that only a small part of this amount will be expended before June 30, when the fiscal year ends. The two new battleships authorized March 4, 1915, were not begun for many months and no payment on their account is likely this year. Congress appropriated $5,400,000 for submarines, but only about $2,502,000 was expended. In fact, this year has been the worst from the standpoint of naval construction that has occurred in many a long day. In view of the condition of the treasury and Secretary McAdoo's insistence that all heads of departments so handle their work as to make the bills come in as far in the future as possible, there is considerable suspicion among republicans that after the "pretending program" has been duly utilized for election purposes, there will be a slump, so that the next administration will have to pay the bills.

Democratic Senators Crawl.
Cringing under the White House lash, the democratic senators who on Monday disclosed President Wilson's mandate and voted to take up the migration bill, hastily crawled on Tuesday. They did not dare to face the executive wrath and the crack of the White House whip. Republican senators demanded to know if they feared to "put the president in a hole" and asked what had occasioned the sudden change of mind exhibited by their democratic colleagues, but they got only evasive answers. Never was there presented so remarkable a spectacle of subservency as is shown by democratic senators and representatives. In private conversation they exhibit great bitterness, charging that they are treated with contempt, never consulted and merely ordered about. They insist, even though they are being devoured by the machine of the White House, that the election of Woodrow Wilson and the reelection of the democrats is a disgraceful thing. The White House and its representatives are being shamefully neglected, but it is giving evidence of a fear which is not only in the public eye but in the private and public life of the nation. The democrats are being thrashed cur.

What Did Roger Report?
Roger Sullivan, democratic national committeeman of Illinois, blew up the democratic headquarters this week and had a somewhat protracted conference with Chairman McCormick. When he came away he looked sour and disgusted and would make no explanation of his visit. A few minutes later there was evidence of great activity in the chairman's office. Messengers were rushed to his home on a suit-case and about town on various errands and within two hours the chairman was on a train headed for Chicago. With the forced departure and Sullivan's manner aroused the curiosity of the New York reporters and determined efforts were made to learn the occasion of the visit and the departure. With a forced smile, Mr. McCormick insisted that Mr. Sullivan reports everything going most satisfactorily in the west, and nothing further regarding Sullivan's message has been learned. Other democratic leaders admit that Sullivan must have reported something which has caused the anxiety of the chairman, but they would not venture a guess as to what it was.

Advisory Committee Named.
Chairman Wilcox of the republican national committee, has announced the completion of his organization with the appointment of an advisory committee consisting of Gov. R. Livingston Beckman of Rhode Island, former Governor Philip of Ohio, former Comptroller of the Currency Charles C. Dawes, former Gov. Eberhard of Minnesota, former Senator Fulton of Oregon, Frank H. Hitchcock, former postmaster and chairman of the republican national committee in 1908, Raymond Robbins, formerly chairman of the Illinois progressive state committee, Victor Rosewater, editor of the Omaha Bee, former Postmaster General John W. Wamaker, William L. Ward, formerly committeeman from New York, and James Wilson of Iowa, who as secretary of agriculture made a record for the long service as a cabinet member in the nation's history. This is regarded as an extremely strong committee, its members being men of wide experience in conducting campaign and all of them men of influence in their respective states. The republican managers are enthusiastic over what they regard as an extremely wise and forward-looking group of their national organization.

CALF CONTEST HELD IS GREAT SUCCESS

Never Before Was Any Contest Held
In Rock County Such a Success.
—Winners Announced.

Rock county's first annual calf feeding contest held this year was probably the most successful contest ever held in Rock County, or even in the state of Wisconsin. It was conducted under the auspices of the Rock County Livestock Breeders' association, and way it turned out, all stages of the contest the interest of the contestants ran high and a end there were thirty-six boys and girls who were dropped out, and they had reasonable excuses.

Preliminary contests were held in the four districts, Janesville, Milton and the winners competed for hours at the Big Janesville Fair, which was held two weeks ago. In the following table the different contestants are shown the gain for the month, the cost for the same time, cost per pound and its record. In the final contest at the fair the type of calf was also taken into consideration. Following is the table:

PHILIPP IS CHARGED IN PLYMOUTH TALK

Ralph Smith, Former Head of Board of Control, Charges Philipp Administration on Issues.

Plymouth, Wis., Aug. 25.—Ralph Smith, former head of the state board of control, speaking here tonight in the interests of former Governor R. E. McGovern, charged that Governor Philipp and his administration are personally responsible for the state being "loaded with junk" at the prison binder twine plant as asserted by Mr. Philipp.

Mr. Philipp's statements that the plant had been operated as a loss prior to the Philipp administration as untrue, and further charged that the administration with manipulating figures in order to make a showing.

W. N. Fitzgerald, special investigator for Mr. Philipp, Mr. Smith charged with being incompetent, claiming that Mr. Fitzgerald knew absolutely nothing about the binder twine business and was unfit to attempt such an investigation.

He reiterated the charges of former Governor McGovern that Mr. Philipp had regulated prices of prison binder twine with prices set by the Harvester trust.

Mr. Smith called attention to the fact that the Fitzgerald inventory showed that there were 2,000,000 pounds of raw material on hand, most of which was bought at 5 1/2 cents a pound; that the quantity on hand was more than sufficient to operate the plant during the entire first year of Philipp's administration, and that three-fourths of all the twine sold by the Philipp administration was made from fibre bought at the above price.

"The profit of $81,000 claimed by Mr. Philipp was due entirely to the fact that the plant had a large supply of raw materials on hand, bought at an extremely low price, and the following increase in prices of raw material and for the finished product," asserted Mr. Smith.

"Mr. Philipp is merely trying to grab off credit for himself which he knows is not his due."

Mr. Smith charged that Mr. Fitzgerald's assistant, one W. L. Kirk, represented by Mr. Fitzgerald, had come from Peoria, Ill., had been employed by Lindsey Bros., Milwaukee, and had been in charge of the plant for the harvest trust.

If the machinery bought for the extension of the plant was junk, Mr. Philipp was responsible because it was received during his administration and accepted by his own agents.

"Reports came to me that the machinery was not all that it was claimed to be," said Mr. Smith. "I immediately wired a notice that if it was not right, it was to be rejected. All this was before Mr. Philipp became governor. Every effort was made to safeguard the interests of the state."

On January 26 was informed by Governor Philipp that would be retained on the board. Before leaving I urged upon the governor the importance of having that machinery inspected. Only a small portion had been received. When the balance arrived Mr. Philipp was in charge. He knew the conditions. He could reject it if necessary. If the state suffered Mr. Philipp must give his accounting to the state."

Concluding Mr. Smith in establishing the binder twine plant, attempting its enlargement, visiting the 1913 legislature the McGovern marketing bill more for the farming interests of the state than any other administration.

EVANSVILLE HORSE IS RECOVERED HERE

Police Looking for Parties Who Stole Animal and Rig From Within Evansville Yesterday.

Arthur Shanahan, an aged gentleman from Evansville, and his daughter, Miss Ida Shanahan, came to Janesville this morning to claim a horse and buggy which was stolen from their place in Evansville yesterday and recovered by the Janesville police last night.

Later Chief of Police Cal Broughton and a party of several Evansville men arrived here in an attempt to locate the thief or thieves. A telephone call last night told the chief that a horse and rig had been hatched at three o'clock the afternoon. A short while later a toll message from Evansville reported the loss of the horse and rig there. The thief or thieves were bold to leave within the limits of Evansville and had taken the horse into the pasture behind his home shortly after five o'clock it was missing, as was a buggy and set of harness. To secure the animal it was necessary to walk into the field about twenty-five rods and then after hitching up it was necessary to pass close by the house on the driveway.

Charles Morgan, a farm laborer, who hails from near Milton, was arrested last night as a suspect in the case. Chief of Police Cal Broughton does not think that Morgan is the man who did the deed.

NEWS NOTES—MOVIELAND

Aside from the immense saving in time—which means an immense saving in expenditure—Mr. Capellan's "duo-camera" idea is believed to give an entirely new continuity to the enactment of the photoplay.

Other directors have used two and sometimes a dozen scenes that were impossible to make, or to obtain shots from different angles, but Capellan is the first director to introduce the duo-camera idea in every scene.

The method of procedure is simple. One camera is stationed at right angles to the other and close enough to the scene to photograph a "close-up." The settings are so built that the action of a scene proceeds without interruption, each camera taking its turn in turn at the director's command. When the film from both cameras is assembled the effect is as if the scene were a continuous action. The characters seem to move about as freely as though on a stage as now looming up in regular theaters and then diminishing in stature as they move to some distant part of the setting—and all without a break, flashback or interruption of any kind.

TWO MOVIE ACTORS INJURED
Two movie actors were injured, one so seriously that he may die, in the Sheephead Bay stampede on Motion Picture Actors' day.

George Rose suffered a fractured skull and a broken nose. Concussion of the brain is feared and little hope is held for his recovery.

An old-time cowboy, he was breaking a wild horse when the accident occurred. He was thrown to the ground and his enraged horse came down on his head with both hoofs.

Art Acord, one of the famous cowboys of the screen, also was thrown from his horse in the last race of the day. "Wild horses," Acord suffered a broken nose and possible internal injuries.

Motion picture day at the stampede was a disappointment, many of the managers refusing to permit their stars to risk themselves on untamed horses. The women's champion being divided into two parts, honors being shared by Dorothy Morell and Lillian Ward, despite his fall, ran up the men's championship score.

the army is in Ireland receiving one shilling a day as government pay the Irish laborers—excluded from provisions of the military service act—take their places in England at six and seven shillings a day.

In Lincolnshire and other important farming counties on the east coast the situation is said to have grown serious. There is no denying that labor is needed to harvest the crops, but the farmers are unable to employ the Irish. They have been told that a rupture will result which will leave them without any labor at all. The difficulty is said to be increased by the shopkeepers in the villages who decline to sell them food.

URIC ACID POISONING!

The most eminent physicians recognize that uric acid stored up in the system is the cause of rheumatism, that this uric acid poison is present in the joints, muscles, or nerves. By experimenting and analysis at the Invalida Hotel and Surgical Institute in Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. Pierce discovered a combination of native remedies that he called "Anuric"—which drives out the uric acid from the system, and in this way the pain, swelling and inflammation subside. If you are a sufferer from rheumatism, backache, pains here or there, you can obtain "Anuric" at any drug store and get relief from the pains and ills brought about by uric acid; or send Dr. Pierce 10c for trial package "Anuric"—many times more potent than lithia and eliminates uric acid as hot water melts sugar. A short trial will convince you.

To Clean Paintbrushes.

No matter how hard a paintbrush has become, it can be made as soft and clean as new by simply boiling in water into which has been put a little lye. A little washing powder or soap will do, but it will take longer. The brush should be placed on end and the boiling water should be no deeper than the length of bristles, as the boiling suds will injure the handle. Turpentine will clean paintbrushes, but not after they have become hard.

Gray Hair Restored to its Natural Color

Remove every trace of prematurely gray, streaked and faded hair, easily, quickly, safely, and turn it an even dark, beautiful shade with Hays' Hair Health.

and keep it full of life, lustrous, healthy, soft, wavy and fascinating. Removes all traces of dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. No dryness, no itching, no loss of color. Large 50c and 25c bottles at all drug stores. Send for valuable booklet "Beautiful Hair." Hays' Hair Health, New York, N. Y.

How to stop dandruff and loss of hair with Resinol

Here is a simple, inexpensive treatment that will generally stop dandruff and scalp itching, and keep the hair thick, live and lustrous:

At night, spread the hair apart and rub a little Resinol Ointment into the scalp gently, with the tip of the finger. Repeat this until the whole scalp has been treated. Next morning, shampoo thoroughly with Resinol Soap and hot water. Work the creamy Resinol lather well into the scalp. Rinse with gradually cooler water, the last water being cold. All druggists sell Resinol Soap and Ointment.

HOW TO REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT

A SIMPLE, SAFE, RELIABLE WAY.

People who are overburdened with superfluous fat, know only too well the discomfort and ridicule that overweight people have to bear.

If you are carrying around five or ten pounds of unhealthy fat you are unnecessarily weakening your vital organs and are carrying a burden which destroys the beauty of your figure.

There is no need of anyone suffering from superfluous fat. If you want to reduce your weight in a simple, safe and reliable way, without starvation diet or tiresome exercise, here is a test worth trying. Spend as much time as you can in the open air, breathe deeply and get from Smith Drug Co. or any good druggist a box of oil of korein capsules; take one after each meal and before retiring at night.

Weight yourself once a week so as to know just how fast you are losing weight and don't leave off the treatment or even skip a single dose until you are down to normal.

Oil of korein is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take and helps digestion. Even a few days treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight, footprints become lighter, your work seems easier and a lighter and more buoyant feeling takes possession of your whole being.

Every person who suffers from superfluous fat should give this treatment a trial.

Pope was noticeably ill at ease. He was conscious of Miss Demore's hostile eyes, and the pointed manner in which she ignored his presence was disquieting. Bob appeared to enjoy his lack of repose, and offered no relief. At last Pope turned to the piano and flattered through the stack of sheet music he found there.

"Do you play?" inquired Bob.

"Yes, why?"

"You look as if you did—you're kind of badly nourished. Know any rag-time?"

The musician groaned. After a moment he murmured, "I improvise a good deal." The instrument, perhaps for the first time in its life, began to vibrate and ring to something besides the clatter of music of the day. Once he had found a means of occupying himself, Pope surrendered to his impulse and in a measure forgot his surroundings.

A short time later Lorelei turned from the kitchenette to find Adoree Demore poised, a salad-bowl in one hand, a wooden spoon gripped in the other, on her face a rapt expression of beatitude.

"Have you rubbed the dish with garlic?" inquired Lorelei.

Adoree roused herself slowly.

"Lordy," she whispered, "I'd give both legs to the knee and one eye if I could play like that. The mean little shrimp!"

The embers of her resentment were still glowing when the four finally seated themselves at the table. A furtive glance in Pope's direction showed that he was studiously avoiding her eyes; she prepared once more to begin the process of faying him.

"You've been away for some time, haven't you?" Bob was asking.

Pope nodded. "I hate New York. I went as far away as I could get, and I managed to return just two jumps ahead of the sheriff. It will take me six months to pay my debts. I'm a grand little business man."

"What was it this time? Mining?"

"No, poultry." Adoree pricked up her ears.

"You went West, eh?" pursued Bob.

"No, East—Long Island. I saw a great opportunity to make money; so I found a farm on a lake, bought it, and went to raising ducks."

"Ducks?" breathlessly exclaimed Miss Demore; but her interruption went unnoticed.

Campbell Pope's features shone with the gentle light of a pleasurable remembrance. "It was lovely and quiet out there. The local inhabitants were shy but friendly; they did me no harm. But—it was no place for ducks; they swam all over the pond. They swam all their fat off, and I had the pond dredged and never found an egg."

Miss Demore giggled audibly; she had lost all interest in her food; she was tingling with excitement.

"Why didn't you fence them in?" she asked.

Pope eyed her for a fleeting instant, then his gaze wandered.

"I fenced in the whole pond to begin with. It nearly broke me."

"A duck shouldn't have much water. What kind were they?"

"Plymouth Rocks, or Holsteins, or Jersey Lilies—anyhow they were white."

"White Pekins?"

"The white frowned argumentatively. 'What is a duck for if he isn't to swim? What is his object? We had six on my father's farm, and they swam all the time. Of course, six isn't many, but—'

"Naturally they didn't do well."

Bob Wharton signaled frantically to his wife, but there was no stopping the discussion that had begun to rage back and forth. It lasted until the conclusion of the meal, and it was only with an effort that Adoree tore herself away. She was in her element, and in a little time had won the critic's undivided attention; he listened with absorption; he even made occasional notes.

As the two girls dressed hurriedly for the theater, Adoree confessed:

"Golly! I'm glad I stayed. He's not bright; he's perfectly silly about some things, and yet he's the most interesting talker I ever heard. And—can't he play a piano?"

CHAPTER XVII.

Hannibal Wharton arrived in New York at five o'clock and went directly to Merkle's bank. At eight o'clock Jarvis Hammon died. During the afternoon and evening other financiers, summoned hurriedly from New England shores and Adirondack camps, were busied in preparations for the struggle they expected on the morrow. During the closing hours of the market prices had slumped to an alarming degree; a terrific raid on metal stocks had begun, and conditions were ripe for a panic.

Hammon had bailed large in the steel world, and his position in circles of high finance had become prominent; but alive he could never have worked one-half the havoc caused by his sudden death. That persistent rumor of suicide argued, in the public mind, the existence of serious money troubles, and gave significance to the rumor that for some time past had disturbed the Street. Hammon's enemies summoned their forces for a crushing assault.

In this emergency Bob's father found himself the real head of those vast enterprises in which he had been an associate, and until a late hour that night he was forced to remain in consultation with men who came and went with consternation written upon their faces.

The amazing transformation which followed the birth of the giant steel trust had raised many men from well-to-do obscurity into prominence and undreamed-of wealth. Since then the older members of the original clique had withdrawn one by one from active affairs, and of the younger men only Wharton and Hammon had remained. Equally these two had figured in what was perhaps the most remarkable chapter of American financial history. Both had been vigorous, self-made, practical men. But the outcome had affected them quite differently.

Riches had turned Jarvis Hammon's mind into new channels; they had opened strange pathways and projected him into a life that was in every way foreign to his early teachings. His duties kept him in New York, while Wharton had held him in his old home. Hammon had become a great financier; Wharton had remained the practical operating expert, and, owing to the exactions of his position, he had become linked more closely than ever to business detail. At the same time he had become more and more unapproachable. Unlimited power had forced him into the peculiar isolation of a chief executive; he had grown hard, suspicious, arbitrary. Even to his son he had been for years a remote being.

It was not until the last conference had broken up, not until the last forces had been disposed for the coming battle, that he spoke to Merkle of Bob's marriage. Merkle told him what he knew, and the old man listened silently. Then he drove to the Elegancia.

Bob and Lorelei had just returned from the theater, much, he said, against the bridegroom's wishes. Bob had been eager to begin the celebration of his marriage in a fitting manner, and it had required the shock of Hammon's death added to Lorelei's entreaties to dissuade him from a night of hilarity. He was flushed with drink, and in consequence more than a little resentful when she insisted upon spending another night in the modest little home.

"Say! I'm not used to this kind of a place," he argued. "I'm not a cave-dweller. It's a lovely life—for a murderer—but it's no place to live."

"Don't be silly," she told him. "We acted on impulse; we can't change everything at a moment's notice."

"But—people take trips when they get married."

"I can't quit the show without two weeks' notice."

"Two weeks?" He was aghast.

"Two minutes. Two seconds. I won't have you dodging around stage doors."

"Bergman won't let me go; it wouldn't be right to ask him."

But Bob was insistent. "I intend to cure you of the work habit. You must learn to scorn it. Look at me. I'm an example of the unlearned increment. We'll kiss this dinky cat a fond farewell—it's impossible, really—I refuse to share such a dark secret with you. Tomorrow we leave it for the third and last time. What if you say to the sunny side of the Ritz until we decide where we want to travel?"

Just then the apartment bell rang. Bob went to the door. He returned with his father at his heels. Mr. Wharton trumped in grimly, nodded at his daughter-in-law, who had risen at the first sound of his voice, then ran his eyes swiftly over the surroundings.

"I hear you've made a fool of yourself again," he began, showing his teeth in a faint smile. "Have you given up your apartment at the Charlevoix?"

"Not yet," said Bob. "We're considering a suite at the Ritz for a few days."

"Indeed, you're going back to the Charlevoix tonight?"

Lorelei started. She had expected opposition, but was unprepared for anything so blunt and businesslike. "I think you and Bob can talk more freely if I leave you alone," she said.

Hannibal Wharton replied shortly: "No, don't leave. I'll talk freer with you here."

It appeared, however, that Robert stood in no awe of his father's anger; he said lightly:

"They never come back, dad. I'm a regular married man. Lorelei is my royal consort, my yoke-mate, my rib. We'll have to scratch the Charlevoix."

This levity left the caller unmoved; to Lorelei he explained:

"I want no notoriety, so all we need talk about is terms. You'll fare better by dealing directly with me than through lawyers—I'll fight a lawsuit—so let's get down to business. You should realize, however, that these settlements are never as large as they're advertised. I'll pay you ten thousand dollars and stand the costs of the divorce proceedings."

"You are making a mistake," she told him, quietly.

"Not at all! Not at all!" Mr. Wharton exclaimed, irritably. "I know real sentiment when I see it, and I'll foot the bill for this counterfeit, but I'm too tired to argue."

Lorelei was standing very white and still; now she said, "Don't you think you'd better go?"

The elder man laid aside his hat and gloves, then spoke with stinging deliberation. "I'll go when I choose. No high and mighty airs with me, if you please." After a curious scrutiny of them both he asked his son: "You don't really imagine that she married you for anything except your money, do you?"

"I flattered myself," Bob began, stiffly.

"Bah! You're drunk."

"Moderately, perhaps—or let us say that I am in an unnaturally argumentative mood. I take issue with you. You see, dad, I've been crazy about Lorelei ever since I first saw her, and—"

"To be sure, that's quite natural. But why in hell did you marry her? That wasn't necessary, was it?"

Lorelei uttered a sharp cry. Bob rose; his eyes were bright and hard. Mr. Wharton merely arched his shaggy brows, inquiring quickly of the bride: "What's the matter? I state the case correctly, do I not?"

"No," gasped Lorelei.

"Let's talk plainly."

"That's a bit too plain, even from you, dad," Bob cried, angrily.

"It's time for plain speaking. You got drunk, and she trapped you. I'm here to get you out of the trap."

"You're going back to the Charlevoix tonight?"

"Ten thousand dollars will buy a lot of clothes. I believe that's the amount Merkle offered you, isn't it?"

"Merkle? What are you talking about?" Bob demanded.

"Did Mr. Merkle tell you how and why he came to make that offer?" asked Lorelei, indignantly.

"No. But he offered it, did he not?"

"Yes, and I refused it. Ask him why."

"We don't seem to be getting along very well," Bob interposed. "Lorelei is my wife and my daughter-in-law. What's more, I love her; so I guess that ends the Reno chatter." He crossed to Lorelei's side and encircled her with his arm. "There's no price tag on this marriage, dad, and you'll regret what you've said."

Wharton senior shrugged wearily. "You tell him, miss; maybe he'll believe you."

"Tell him what?" asked Lorelei.

"The truth, of course." He paused for a reply, and, receiving none, broke out wrathfully: "Then I will. She's a grifter, Bob, and her whole family are grifters. Now, let me finish. She makes her living in any way she can; she smirks at you out of every catch-penny advertisement along Broadway. She's 'The Chewing-Gum Girl' and 'The Petticoat Girl' and 'The Bathing Girl'."

"There's nothing dishonest in that."

"Just a minute. I won't have my daughter's face grinning at me every time I get into a street car. I'd be the laughing-stock of the country. It's legitimate, perhaps, but it's altogether too damned colorful for me."

"Is that all you have against her?"

"Not by any means. She's notorious."

"Newspaper talk?"

"Is it? She's made her living by bleeding men, by taking gifts and renting herself out the way she did at Hammon's supper. Men don't support show girls from chivalrous motives. I had her family looked up, and it didn't take two hours. Listen to this report."

"No!" Lorelei smiled.

It takes a strong imagination to be entirely good—it is necessary to imagine what your conduct is doing to somebody far away. Take suitcases. Few of us seldom stop to remember that the origin of a suitcase is a cow. It is cardboard and other vegetable suitcases are, of course, an exception. But leather suitcases come right off of a cow, as much as if you yourself had gone out into a pasture with a lot of shirts and socks and picked off a cow and snatched a suitcase off her back to put them in. It makes no difference who buys the cow, there is no other place to get a good suitcase. Alligators used to do, but alligator suitcases got garish. Cows are nice, they look nice and peaceful under a tree; it is too bad to have to cause them pain in order to get a suitcase, which sooner or later will only be stuck almost over with gaudy labels. It is almost enough to make one stay at home, rather than go in a suitcase. Yes, we are all pretty big roughnecks if we stop to imagine where we got our suitcases and shoes and our flet mignon. We are roughnecks—except we let somebody else wait the sledghammer. Perhaps our shirts were made in a place where the windows were never open. Maybe our pants were sewed in a dark attic. We get so stuck to thinking of pants as pants and leather as leather. A little more imagination and wonder would not hurt us—still a person could get pretty batty if he stopped and wept about cows every time he packed his grip.

SUN'S RAYS CARESS TEMPLE

Tinge of Red Upon Mighty Columns of Baalbek May Be Explained in Two Ways.

At Baalbek man has truly achieved the cyclopean. Here the excavators have unearthed a complete set of ruins. Here lying guides get tourists to swallow bigger stories than in any place I know of, says a writer in the Christian Herald.

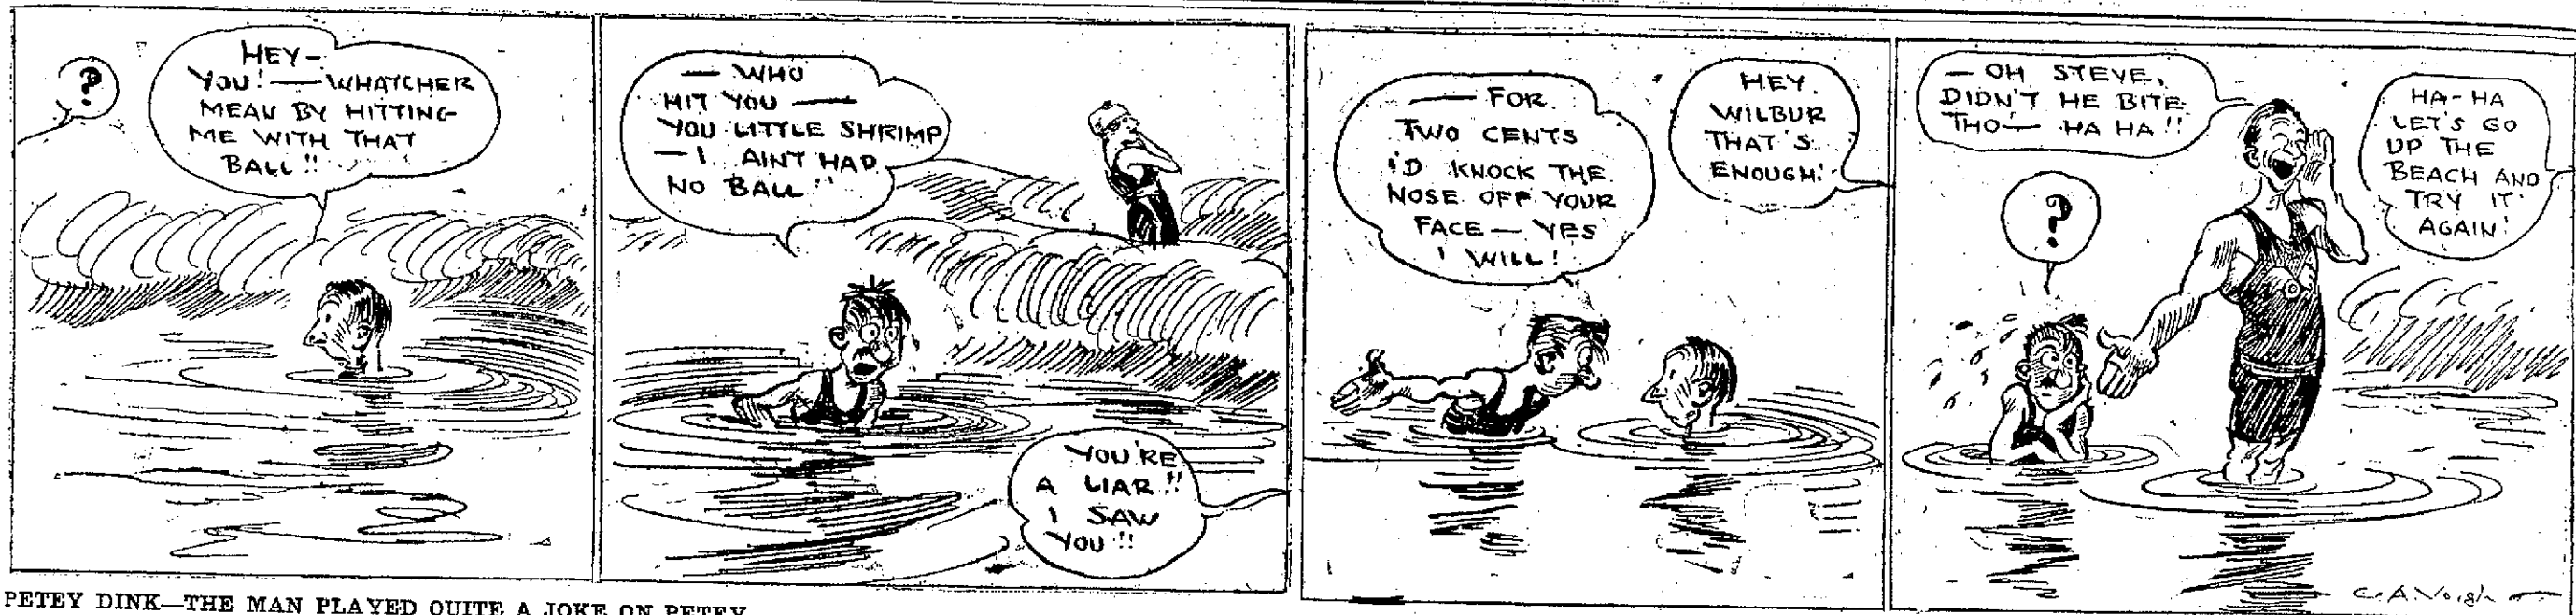

Here the towering columns of the temple of the sun watch the orb of day descend behind the Lebanon, after the lifting shadows have engulfed the smaller temple of Bacchus. And the sun, in departing, leaves his kiss upon the stately colonnade in a clearly seen tinge of red.

There are prosaic folk who say the tinge is caused by iron in the rock. That may be an explanation to those who believe in the age of iron, but this mighty temple does not belong to the present age of machinery.

It is more likely that the red tinge in the rock is the stain of blood—the blood of men who died in erecting this everlasting monument. Perhaps it is as well that the blood of the laborers should show on the monument of the conqueror who built this temple to an unknown god.

Men who are killed in mines and dangerous occupations today have no such mighty reminders of their toil as the bluish which shows on the graceful columns of Baalbek when the setting sun slowly settles behind the long line of lofty Lebanon.

U. S. TENNIS STARS COMPETE IN TOURNEY OPENING ON MONDAY

Thirty-Sixth Annual National Championship on Courts at Forest Hill, Long Island.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

New York, Aug. 25.—The 36th annual championship tournament of the United States National Lawn Tennis association which will be played on the courts of the West Side Tennis club at Forest Hill, L. I., beginning next Monday (Aug. 28) will bring together the leading racket wielders of the country. The famous experts of the Pacific coast, the South and the Middle West will meet in speed and skill against the best of the Eastern stars and on the eve of the tournament the leaders appear to be so evenly matched that there is no outstanding favorite.

The championship now held by William M. Johnston of San Francisco.

Chief interest will likely center in the efforts of Maurice E. McLoughlin, the greatest tennis player developed in this country, to capture outright the mammoth silver bowl, emblematic of the singles championship. This trophy, the eighth offered since the formation of the Tennis association in 1881, has been in competition since 1911 and must be won three times, but not necessarily in succession, in order to become the personal property of the victor.

The present standing of the players who have won legs on the bowl is as follows: Maurice E. McLoughlin, San Francisco, two wins; R. Norris Williams, 2nd, Philadelphia, one; William M. Johnston, San Francisco, one; W. A. Larned, New York, one.

It is noted that who has retired from the tournament play won the title and bowl in 1911. McLoughlin captured the trophy in 1912 and 1913. He was defeated in the final round by William Johnston at Newport in 1914 and by Johnston at Forest Hills last August. In order to fight his way into the finals next week the California Comet must defeat a number of very high class players for his name was drawn in the lower half of the bracket.

Play will begin early Monday (Aug. 28) morning with 128 competitors entered. Close to 120 courts will be available and the sixty-two survivors will meet Tuesday. The following day the field will be reduced to thirty-two; sixteen will play on Thursday; eight on Friday; four on Saturday; and the winner of the semi-final round will cross rackets on Labor day for the singles title unless unfavorable weather causes a postponement.

BASES FULL; WHANG! GRIFFS BEAT SOX 8-3

One Smash Sends Five Runs Across Plate and Senators Cap First Game of Series.

Smith's circuit smash with all stations situated permitted the Senators to administer a crushing 8 to 3 defeat to the Sox yesterday. Together with the home was the general wildness of the entire Chicago team, they have practically thrown the game away without Washington's need of the long clout.

The Sox pitchers are shot. There isn't a one left that is able to go the route, or even a good portion of it in commendable manner. For five innings yesterday Red Faber was as wild as a hornet. He passed two Senators and hit another one and was touched for six of their eight hits.

Calvin, a fourth string man, after the second inning held the Sox scoreless, and hitless in the last six rounds. As it is now Griffith has his top cards for the remainder of the series with the Sox.

WOMEN HUNTERS SECURE LICENSES FOR SHOOTING

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 25.—There will be a good many women hunters in Wisconsin next year, according to the record of licenses issued by the county clerk. Two women have already taken out permits to hunt in Milwaukee county.

Sport Snap Shots MORRIS MILLER

Guy Morton, who had been counted on as one of the biggest pitching assets, will still come back and be of value in the final drive for the pennant. Morton was the victim of an onslaught by the Browns in recent game in which he lasted less than an inning, but slack fielding was largely responsible for his downfall. Had Morton not been injured the Indians would now be way in front, granting he continued pitching the kind of ball he was serving when he was forced out. The Indians' manager still has strong pennant hopes, with Morton one of his big dependents.

Joe Rivers, the Mexican lightweight, who meets Johnny Griffith in a twelve round decision at Canton Labor Day, is training steadily for the victory. Rivers is the recent manager of Gibson, who was a surprise. "Coming in at 139 pounds will give Griffith a big weight advantage. Laga writes, "but Rivers won't mind that. Joe weighs more than 133 ringside, but don't be surprised if he does what the best lightweights in the country have failed to do. He'll send Griffith down for the count. He'll get it sure if he ever lands that right of his, and from the form he is showing in his workouts he may connect."

Honus Wagner, who, like time, seems to go on forever, is the sole survivor of the Pittsburgh payroll of the famous Pirates who, in 1909, won the world's championship from the Detroit Tigers. Some of them have passed into obscurity and others have been relegated to the smallest of minor leagues. The last to go was George Gibson, veteran catcher, who has gone to New York via the waiver route.

It is hard to believe that Bennie Kauff is anxious to leave the Giants. Kauff owes the New York National league club a lot. It took him at a fabulous price and is paying him a big salary. It can hardly be said that he has come up to expectations as a Giant. Kauff is a better ball player than he has shown himself to be with the Giants. McGraw believes that in another year Bennie will be more valuable than he is now. He has not played the ball in the National league that he did in the Federal circuit, even allowing that the National league is stronger than the old outlaw league. Players of the Fed have remarked that Bennie doesn't look the same this year. It is ridiculous to say that this is due to the difference in pitching of the ball used. Kauff outthrew men like Chase and Ernie Johnson by a wide margin in the Fed league and they are now leading him in the National and American leagues. The difference in Kauff's game seems due largely to the change in his attitude toward baseball. He used to show every move that he loved to play for the love of playing. Now he acts as if the baseball bored him. Early in the spring he was having fourth. McGraw placed him second, but although the change worked well for a few days Bennie soon fell away again. Unless he has got it into his head that he cannot play in New York, Bennie should not try to get away. He has been well treated there. The fans like him. McGraw has been very fair with him.

Heinie the Zim may join the Dodgers. Charley Ebbets says he hasn't made any offer for the star third sacker of the Cubs but admits that he would like to get him. "I haven't offered Tinker any players for Zimmerman," said Ebbets. "In fact, I don't know just what Tinker wants for him. Neither have I made a cash proposition. Zimmerman is a great ball player. I would like to get him, but as yet have made no move to secure him. Will develops later remains to be seen."

Jimmy Hickman, an outfielder sent to the Asheville North Carolina league team by the Brooklyn Nationals, got a home run, a double and six hits in nine times at bat and stole four bases in a doubleheader recently.

Many college football managers are worried because some of the players are doing military duty on the border. There are a number of baseball managers who wish their players were on the border.

Milton Junction News

Milton Junction, Aug. 25.—The Woodman picnic, which was held at Charles Bluff, Lake Koshkonong, Thursday, was a huge success. One of the largest crowds that has attended a picnic for years enjoyed the day. Picnic dinners by the lake shore and in the grove were much in evidence at noon. Nearly all the local merchants closed their places of business Thursday afternoon so they could attend the picnic. The Edgerton ball team defeated Harmony by a score of 16 to 7. Mr. Wybeck of Whitewater had the high standing in the blue rock shoot, as he brought down 4 out of 50. Music was furnished by the Albion band. The dance in the evening at the Woodman Hall was well attended. Music by Smiley's orchestra of Beloit.

DR. PAGLIARE BLAMES WAR FOR HIGH FOOD PRICES
RELIEF IS PROMISED SOON

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Buenos Aires, Aug. 25.—Dr. Jose Marcos Pagliare today denied the report that the Radical party soon will turn its hand to the administrative machinery in Argentina has no program. The statement has been made by a number of their political opponents and by many radicals themselves. Dr. Pagliare, a prominent Radical probably will have a place in President-elect Ingogoyen's cabinet, says they are mistaken.

"We Radicals," he declared today, "are men of action, with deeds, not words, for our daily motto. Personally I look forward to a new constitutional life in Argentina which will make our nationality as immovable as the rock."

"There will be more security for the people and for the stranger," Dr. Pagliare said the Radicals will reduce food prices.

"The European war," he said today, "has unnecessarily increased the cost of bread in Argentina to 15 1/2 cents for 2 pounds and 2 ounces. We have studied this matter and at the end of 3 months of experiment have disposed of much bread at 8 cents and 3 mills for 2 pounds and 2 ounces. This was done without the loss of a single cent. We will do the same with meat and milk very soon."

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Buenos Aires, Aug. 25.—A crowd of cowboys and cattlemen from near-by ranches and ranges came to Cheyenne today to "yip yea" when Charles E. Hughes arrives for tonight's mass meeting here. The picturesque "frontiersmen" also will be in evidence when the Republican candidate delivers his address tonight, the only set speech on his schedule in Wyoming.

Governor and Mrs. Hughes left Salt Lake City at midnight and were due to arrive in Cheyenne late this afternoon, rear platform talks at Rawlins, Laramie and possibly other Wyoming towns being almost certain to delay him.

Island Rich in Emery.

Emery, the best natural abrasive, is mined in large quantities on the island of Naxos in the Cyclades group, Greece, from which more than 75 per cent of the world's annual output is now shipped.

As a means of disposing of your real estate, the little want ads are sure winners.
